The American Teacher

THIS IS AMERICA!

And this is an American school teacher.
She is moulding the future of America
In the person of a little schoolchild.
She carries on in a war-torn world
Holding aloft the Lamp of Learning
To light the way to a Lasting Peace.
Her ideals and standards are high
And indoctrination is not in her Code.
For she is an AMERICAN schoolteacher
And

THIS IS AMERICA!

in tribute to

THE AMERICAN TEACHER

MANSFIELD STATE COLLEGE LIBRARY
MANSFIELD, PENNSYLVANIA

Dedication to the American Teacher

The Carontawan Board accepts the declaration that the American teacher is one of the most essential individuals in our society; and that progress in human living depends upon instruction. This instruction is accomplished through the teacher's example and practice. The American teacher recognizes, encourages, and cultivates the best in those who are learning; and assumes the responsibility to work toward human betterment.

Because the Carontawan Board believes that Marjorie Cadle Brooks represents the American educator in the highest sense, the Board respectfully dedicates the 1945 Carontawan to this inspiring teacher and capable administrator.

The Teacher Assumes a Responsibility in the Administration of the College

President

President James G. Morgan

At Work

A number of your classmates, whose formal education was so tragically interrupted but whose sacrifices have enabled you to complete your college education in a war-torn world, are now marching toward final victory. You are also a very real part of that national and world procession although no military victories are reserved for you. To you will be entrusted the rebuilding of a greater and more enduring victory on the home front. You may discharge that responsibility by keeping alive the sense of urgency that enlivens everything you do today; by transforming duties into missions; by transmuting the patriotism of sacrifice in war into the patriotism of service in peace with no abatement of fervor.

of the College

Although the majority of your class will assume the role of an American Teacher all of you are fortunate in having had an education which interprets vocational and professional efficiency in terms of social competence and service. Your life will touch hundreds and thousands of others. If you become a partner in a home, it will be your standards of values that will largely determine the success or failure of that partnership. If you assume larger democratic responsibilities in your community, it will be your attitudes and intelligent thinking that will aid in determining the character of democracy in your community and, in turn, the character of our national and world democracy. If you join the ranks of the American Teacher then yours is a great trusteeship—"the debt eternal of each generation to the new life which must take its place"—and yours, the opportunity to kindle the flame of right thinking and living in the minds and hearts of the youth of America.

JAMES G. MORGAN,
President.

Deans of the College

The college year 1944-45 finds the world still engaged in war. During this time everyone must share the responsibilities of the nation. Some must take part in the armed forces, some must work in industrial plants producing the armament for the fighting front, others must produce the food for not only our nation but to a degree for our allies and the rehabilitated areas, while still others must make preparation for the postwar period. You men at Mansfield are charged with the last of the above obligations, which, must not be taken lightly. The ensuing years will present a great need for young men who can engage in adult education as well as that of the youth. To meet this demand you must have vision and the ability to evaluate issues and materials. These qualities are obtained only through a sound educational background and an open mind. With such an objective established it is your duty to take advantage of all the opportunities offered through the personalities of the instructors, and in the content of the library and other educational facilities on the campus of the State Teachers College at Mansfield.

CYRIL L. STOUT,
Acting Dean of Men.

William Lyon Phelps, one of the world's great teachers, said: "There has never been in the world's history a period when it was more worthwhile to be a teacher than in the twentieth century." The nation has greater need of able teachers now than ever before and according to post war educational plans the role of the teacher will become increasingly more important in the days ahead. To you, as a potential American teacher, comes the challenge of becoming an able teacher. A teachers college education does not necessarily produce an educated teacher. College offers you your education but you, as a future teacher, must be willing to assimilate it. Your education here at Mansfield should aid you to think independently, to understand the present condition of this country in terms of its past heritage, to make decisions wisely, to value the respect of each individual and to be interested in his growth, and to have the inner resources necessary for personal development and personal satisfaction. Never has the nation been more in need of teachers who possess these qualifications. May you always believe in your profession and find happiness in being an American teacher.

Homemaking Department

Mrs. Elizabeth B. Morales
Director of Homemaking Department

Miss Mattson and Juniors in the Apartment.

The Homemaking Education Department does a fine job in preparing the future teacher of America. A homemaking student has the opportunity to study in many subject fields. Besides the homemaking courses in foods, clothing, nutrition, child care, management, and design, she takes courses in education, health, art, literature, history, languages, psychology, and the sciences.

The young women are given every possible opportunity to practice homemaking in all its phases. In our very modern and attractive apartment on campus, small groups of students live for a period of six weeks with a resident director, Miss May Mattson, during their junior year. Here they put into practice the principles they have been taught in other homemaking courses. Also during their junior year, the Home Eccers manage and carry out the school lunch program at the Junior High School under the supervision of Miss Maryon Farrer.

Each student teaches a semester on campus under careful guidance and has the additional privilege of teaching under supervision in a vocational homemaking department for six weeks in an approved high school in Pennsylvania during her senior year.

Music Department

Miss Brooks
Head of Music Department

The Music Department may be greatly reduced in size from previous years but that fact has not hampered its development of the prospective AMERICAN TEACHER. Besides the numerous courses in music theory and culture, the music students are given extensive training in voice and instrumental work with special attention to their major instrument.

The unlimited number of college activities provide splendid opportunities for the students to display their musical abilities. Assembly programs, vesper services, and monthly Sunday afternoon musicales are just a few of the programs featuring talent from the Music Education Department.

We in the Music Department extend our best wishes to Mr. Bertram Francis, the former department head who has answered the call to duty, Into his position we have welcomed the very efficient leadership of Miss Marjorie Brooks.

Secondary Department

The Secondary Department of Mansfield State Teachers College strives to prepare and produce better teachers for the junior and senior high schools. This program is under the supervision of Eugene P. Bertin. As head of the Secondary Department, he attempts to solve any problems which may confront students, teachers, or the department itself.

To the secondary student Mansfield offers a selection of such special fields as science, mathematics, social studies, English, and languages. Specialization allows the secondary student to major in the subjects in which he is most interested. The campus junior high school provides the setting for a direct application by the young secondary teacher of the knowledge he has acquired in his particular field. And thus an American secondary teacher is born.

Elementary Department

Dr. George A. Retan
Director of Elementary Education

The Elementary Department under the direction of Dr. George A. Retan seeks to promote better childhood education through the use of more progressive methods. The elementary student teacher learns and practices the latest innovations of great educators.

The supervisors of the elementary laboratory school are a tribute to the school teaching profession. They are responsible not only for the pupils in their grade but also for their student teachers. Although this is a large responsibility, it is most capably handled by teachers who through wide experience have accumulated a great store of knowledge about everything in general.

Since a much larger number of children enter grade school than ever reach high school or college, the task of the elementary teacher is an important one. Her well-rounded personality and excellent teacher-training make her typical of "THE AMERICAN TEACHER."

The campus junior high school acts as the connecting link between the elementary school and the senior high school. It is at this age level that the school is confronted by the turbulent problems of adolescent youth. Modern educators have come to the realization that the vocational as well as the academic subjects are important in the all around development of the individual. Art, music, homemaking education, industrial arts, and physical education help to accomplish this purpose.

A well-filled library encourages students to read for enjoyment. Sports contests of various kinds are held to promote physical development and good sportsmanship. The school lunch cafeteria insures a balanced diet for the child. A really wonderful job is being done with junior high school students by the AMERICAN TEACHER.

Elementary School

The elementary school is an impressive modern structure especially designed to make the task of the AMERICAN TEACHER easier and more effective. In addition to being well equipped, the rooms are light and pleasant. These factors and many more make the American school child of today enjoy going to school.

Starting with kindergarten and ending with the sixth grade, the children are directed through a program designed to develop their personalities as well as their academic abilities. The curriculum includes the traditional subjects supplemented by art, music, and physical education. Truly the opportunities of a school child in America are of a wider range than anywhere else in the world.

Many Pleasant Memories of M. S. T. C.

Four years ago there came to this campus a new class, green as grass, but dedicated to the determination to better themselves.

Now we are seniors, and we shall soon find out whether a class so determined and so prepared can be of value to the world.

We wish to dedicate a portion of our lives to those of our number who so nobly responded to Uncle Sam's call that we may remain free and also to the faculty who so gallantly struggled to add to our education. It is for us to be dedicated to the unfinished task before us . . . that from these experiences we take increased zeal to serve on the home front as those in the armed forces are serving on the far-flung battlefields of the world.

And we hereby highly resolve that our faculty shall not have labored in vain . . . that this CLASS OF 1945 shall be a credit to our Alma Mater, so that to these walls which we all love, shall come increased honor because of our service to mankind as AMERICAN TEACHERS.

With apologies to Abe Lincoln.

"Do you wish the world were wiser?
Well, suppose you make a start,
By accumulating wisdom
In the scrapbook of your heart;
Do not waste one page on folly;
Live to learn, and learn to live.
If you want to give men knowledge
You must get it, ere you give."

These lines were token from Ella Wheeler Wilcox's poem, "Wishing."

You, the members of the Class of 1946, have the advantages of a small class and almost "individualized" instruction. Make the most of these opportunities to follow and practice the above philosophy. It will help you to become teachers of whom Mansfield will always be proud.

For Another Year At M. S. T. C.

Someone has said that "anyone can write a good first chapter" . . . The successful author is the one who completes well the entire book.

We have written our first few chapters containing records of some defeats but many victories and illustrated with good times throughout.

We congratulate the CLASS OF 1945, having triumphed over the vicissitudes of four years. With perseverance, we hope to follow them in another year, and by writing chapter four in our college careers, carry on the glory that is MANSFIELD.

The Class of '47 arrived in '43, administering with a generous hand vitamin pills to upperclassmen on the M. S. T. C. campus. We were full of vitamins A, B, and C . . . Abstracted, Bewildered, and Cautioned.

This year we are Sophomores bubbling over with the same endless energy. We still have our vitamins but their values have changed a little. The old A, B, and C are now Ambition, Brains, and Courage! Under the leadership of our class officers and the able direction of our adviser, Mr. Lloyd, we hope to add vitamins D and E . . . Distinction and Education plus.

Never let it be said that war-time restrictions and deprivations crippled the Class of '47. They merely hampered us momentarily, but we still have two good years ahead.

The Class of 1948 Experiences

To the Class of 1948:

Each of you is an important part of the Freshman Class; the Freshman Class is an integral part of the Mansfield State Teachers College; and Mansfield State Teachers College is an excellent illustration of the democratic and educational way of life for which this war is being waged. As a good college community is produced only by good citizens, so the Class of 1948 will be the product of its members and their cooperation one to another. Each freshman can do something toward helping other freshmen and in this way make a positive contribution to the college environment. Your college experiences will be what you make them. In times of distress and worry, such as we are now enduring, the thought that you by your patience, your unselfish attitude, your faith and your courage will help others, makes your life purposeful. In selecting teaching as your profession, you as an American teacher should incorporate in your philosophy of life the important principle of serving others.

As you continue your college education, our best wishes are with you for experiences which are meaningful and worthwhile.

Class Advisers

a New Way of Life at M. S. T. C.

Here we are: the Class of 1948. We arrived at Mansfield State Teachers College on September 11, 1944, and proceeded to make ourselves right at home.

Our first week was filled with a well-jumbled mixture of interviews, tests, schedules, and parties—all of which prevented even the slightest semblance of homesickness from making its appearance. During our second week, the Sophomores helped us get acquainted with the annual ritual of initiation, climaxed by a swell party in the Y rooms. By the time we got our wind, we had elected our class officers and contributed our Freshman Talent Show.

We are another of the small war classes, numbering only about 60 members; but we're going to prove that quality will make up for what we lack in quantity. With the friendship of Faculty, Upperclassmen, Big Sisters, and Cadet Nurses, we are having a grand time at the beginning of our college career. By some we may be considered "The Poor Little Freshmen," but we're ready and willing to take part in everything that's going on around the campus, and really show our colors!

With all eyes turned toward victory, the Student Council of 1944-45 is conscientiously striving to uphold the standards established by the Student Councils of previous years.

The Student Council, which is the governing body of the Mansfield State Teachers College Government Association, is made up of thirteen members and two advisers. These members are: officers of the Council, class presidents, editors of publications, Day Students president, Men Students president, and Dormitory Council president.

This year the Council has sponsored the traditional activities: the big and little sister system, the planning of the social calendar, the publication of "The Password," the operation of extra-class point system, the appointment of Mansfield representatives to "Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges," the organization of Freshman Week, and the presentation of an assembly program. As a wartime project, the Council has continued the sale of warsavings stamps.

The members of Student Council are your representatives in the governing body of your college. Mansfield State Teachers College is continually striving for improvements in all phases of college activities. With full cooperation from all, this goal shall be attained.

May Day Was A Memorable Occasion

Mansfield State Teachers College is proud of her Co-eds and her pride is justified and how! Look at our May Court and all potential schoolteachers too! Proof enough to dissolve the many unwarranted ideas of the characteristic schoolteacher. We're out to show the world that our schoolteachers are typical American girls full of vim, vigor, and vitality.

Our May Queen and Court are chosen according to the following qualifications: Personality, attractiveness, extracurricular activities, and academic rating. In other words, our Queen and her Court are examples of Mansfield's most outstanding women on campus.

The May Day Ceremony of 1944 was one of the most beautiful events of the year. The traditional May Pole dance by our nimble-footed "Frosh" opened the stately ceremonies and was followed by the pompous entrance of the Queen and her Court. With the placing of the sequined crown, Lt. John Baynes, U. S. Army Air Corps, pronounced lovely Eloise Beardslee Queen of the May. Then followed the operetta "Robin and Marion," presented by the talented members of Lambda Mu in honor of the Queen. Orchids to the Music Sups!

May Day is one of our most outstanding traditions at Mansfield and something to remember for years to come.

Women's Dormitory Council Makes a Home of North Hall

First row: B. Goodall, L. Henning, V. Bailey, Pres., P. Slair, V. Singley.
Second row: C. McClintock, M. Peters, R. Izer, Miss Wasley.

The Women's Dormitory Council is a group of eight women chosen by the students, who act as a governing body of the dormitory. They exist for the purpose of administering student life in the dormitory so that all may live comfortably and with consideration for others; for the purpose of developing individual and group responsibility; for the purpose of promoting conditions for the development of courtesy, self-control, and the desire to strive toward higher scholastic standards.

This year the Women's Dormitory Council has attempted to assist the War Effort and the administration of the college by conserving electricity. The students have cooperated splendidly and the members of the council appreciate the assistance they have been given in this project. Among the more pleasurable duties of the Council is the planning of parties and decorations in the wells at Christmas time.

By delegating some of the duties and powers of the Council to student committees we have striven to make student government more democratic and active through their participation.

Day Students Luncheon
Men Students' Club

Day Students Enjoy Many Parties and Luncheons

All the women who do not live in North Hall are automatically members of the Women's Day Student Club. To counterbalance the fact that those not on the campus miss many of the extra-curricular activities, this organization provides fellowship and fun and fosters a real sense of "belonging" to M. S. T. C. Members have their own room on the first floor of North Hall which can be used for rest, study, feminine chit-chat, or recreational diversions. Social activities such as picnics, luncheons, and parties are interspersed throughout the year.

The Men's Student Club is the only 100% organization on the campus, including in its membership every male enrolled as a student at M. S. T. C. whether living in South Hall or elsewhere. It attempts to promote the interests of the men fortunate enough to still be in school and to have at least a small voice in the student life of the college. In the club meetings, an effort is made to discuss and solve, if possible, any individual or group problems that might affect the welfare of the men students.

Both of these student clubs seek for their individual members a well-balanced, complete college life, which will start them on the way to being successful AMERICAN TEACHERS.

If you should "con" some evening,
O'er these pages, "all alone"
And, dreaming, "see the faces"
Of the friends that you have known:
Should sudden, tender memories
Go singing through your heart,
Should the long, long dreams of youth-time
Spring to life while tear drops start:
Should your love of Mother Mansfield
Make life seem more true and wide
And you gently . . . turned these pages . . .
Then
We would be satisfied!

The Flashlight is the student newspaper, the "Voice of the Student Body of Mansfield State Teachers College." In the words of its Constitution, the purposes of the Flashlight are: to promote interest in college activities, to develop a high degree of school spirit, to give an opportunity to students to develop initiative and skill in writing, and to develop a spirit of cooperation among the student body.

With these purposes well in mind, the 1944-45 Flashlight has been published. Each issue presented a vivid cross section of life at M.S.T.C. and covered the full round of campus activities.

It was again possible to send copies of the Flashlight to our men and women in the service of their country. We hope this brought Mansfield just a little closer to them.

Groups Provide Experience

This year the Department of Music Education placed special emphasis upon small musical groups. Members of the Department have participated in brass, woodwind, and string ensembles. Of these ensembles, the brass ensemble has been particularly active, having made several public appearances. A concert group, consisting of the more advanced instrumental players has performed at Sunday afternoon recitals. Experience of sight-reading and ensemble playing gained from participation in these small groups has proven invaluable.

The College Chorus has presented several college assembly programs and provided sacred music for college vesper services. Besides preparation for programs, importance of sight-reading choral literature was stressed.

One of the most popular vocal groups on campus, the Sophomore Women's ensemble, furnished music for many college activities. The return of the Madrigal Singers after two years, met with great approval. Treble voices were employed exclusively.

The chief purpose of this club is to further the development of childhood education and to help enrich the background of the prospective American elementary teacher.

Monthly meetings are held, at which time various programs are enjoyed and students and faculty become better acquainted. Under the capable leadership of Dr. Retan and Miss Mildred Grigsby, sponsors, and the club officers, this organization is really making a name for itself on the M. S. T. C. campus.

Kappa Delta Pi is an honor educational society whose purpose is to maintain high ideals and to foster fellowship, scholarship, and achievement in educational work.

This society grew out of the Illinois Education Club founded in 1909 at the University of Illinois. In 1919, the Illinois Education Club became Kappa Delta Pi, a national education society ranking among the most influential organizations in the field of education. The official organ of Kappa Delta Pi is the "Educational Forum," a quarterly magazine which reflects the ideals of the society.

Scholastic Achievement

Beta Rho chapter endeavors to bring to our campus, activities which will be of interest to all the students as well as to its members. This year the activities of the local chapter centered around a program devised to broaden the cultural and intellectual interests of the members. This proved to be an entertaining as well as an educational series of programs designed to make a superior AMERICAN TEACHER.

To Know and Teach Homemaking

Miss Johnson, Sponsor

Omicron Gamma Pi is an organization composed of all the homemaking students and faculty members. It is affiliated with the State and National Home Economics Associations.

The monthly meetings of Omicron Gamma Pi inspire the members to greater achievements. This past year each class presented a program. Finance was the theme of the seniors; the juniors, through a movie and discussion, broadened our view of education; the annual project was the sophomores contribution; and the freshmen gave the traditional farewell party for the seniors. The club also enjoyed a picnic in Smythe Park, a play review, and a Christmas program on social service.

Through these meetings the bond of fellowship among the students is strengthened, a keener interest in homemaking as a profession is created, and a better AMERICAN TEACHER is developed.

Pi Kappa Epsilon is a local homemaking sorority attempting to stimulate professional, cultural, and inspirational growth. Its members are selected from the second semester sophomore, junior, and senior classes according to definite scholarship and character requirements. Each year a sponsor and co-sponsor are elected from the homemaking faculty.

The aim of every member in this organization is a greater understanding of the breadth and scope of "To be an efficient and well-trained teacher and a confident and helpful homemaker." Each member pledges herself to make a "worthy contribution to the profession of homemaking."

The year's programs are planned to increase appreciation of the finer things of life and to stimulate creativeness and originality. Guest speakers are selected from the faculty and interested townspeople. A special research problem in the field of homemaking is carried out each year by the sorority members under the guidance of the sponsors.

The meetings are held every alternate month and a banquet and initiation of new members in May terminate the year's program.

1st row: Miss Atwater, V. Bailey, Miss Brooks, H. Hetrick, P. James, J. Murdock.
2nd row: M. Peters, Miss Randall, J. Rathbun, B. Shields—President, E. Wetmore.

Lambda Mu is a local honorary sorority for women music students who have attained the ranking of second semester sophomores, and who possess musical talent, personality, and integrity of character. Bi-annually Lambda Mu initiates candidates for membership and sponsors a banquet for active and alumnae members and initiates. The sorority attempts to achieve musical growth as prospective American teachers by stressing individual and group performances.

The traditional Christmas well performance this year had its basis upon folk music gleaned from previous study. Last May the Sorority presented the twelfth century comic opera, "Robin and Marion." The Sorority's Sunday afternoon record concerts have gained in popularity and offer ample opportunity for cultural development of both Sorority members, who present the concerts, and the audience.

In December, the group spent a week-end in New York City where they attended performances of the New York Philharmonic Orchestra, the NBC Symphony, conducted by Arturo Toscanini, and the Broadway musical, "Carmen Jones."

To be a well-devoped, all-round person, one's education must include recreation to offset the many hours spent in study. W. A. A. serves this purpose on our campus. Its program provides a wide variation of activities which include: basketball, tennis, swimming, bowling, volley-ball, table tennis, badminton, and shuffleboard tournaments. It provides equipment for those interested in roller-skating, coasting, tobogganning, skiing, and bicycling.

The only requirements for membership is an interest in physical development and health relaxation. These members may earn an "M" by completing the requirements of 200 points through participation in the various activities.

Many Interesting Projects Are Undertaken By The Art Club

The aim of our cub is the enrichment of life through the study and appreciation of art which we feel is vital in the education of the AMERICAN TEACHER. To attain this goal, we hold monthly meetings of varied and interesting programs. These include lectures as well as work meetings. Plans are made and executed which result in beautiful Christmas decorations on campus in an effort to promote the holiday spirit.

Each year the president is sent as a delegate to the Art Convention of the Eastern Arts Association of which our club is a member.

Membership in Art Cub is limited to those who have shown their interest and ability in art by earning a grade of "A" in one semester of any art course. Initiations of new members are held at the beginning of each semester.

Although the decrease in the enrollment of our college has had a decided effect on the Young Women's Christian Association, it has been merely in membership, not in spirit. With conditions as they were this year, it was not possible to do many of the things the Y. W. C. A. had been accustomed to doing. However, the activities, though fewer in number and more limited, have not been less meaningful to the girls. The service of the installation of officers was no less impressive, nor were the food sales and pajama parties less fun.

One of the most outstanding events in the year was the privilege of entertaining on the campus, Miss Ione Sykes, who came to us through the Student Christian Movement. Miss Sykes spoke informally to the student body several times and was always willing to talk personally with individuals.

The "Y" rooms have perhaps seen more service this year than in previous years, for the need of relaxation and moments of spiritual quietness have been far greater in such troubled days; and these pleasant, comfortable rooms do much to fulfill that need.

Thus, in spite of the smaller membership and the somewhat restricted line of activity, the "Y" programs have been just as inspiring, as entertaining, and as helpful this year as they have been in previous years. The Y.W.C.A. remains a constant guide to the prospective AMERICAN TEACHER even more so today than ever before.

by the College Players' Group

The College Players, full of enthusiasm and ambition, are carrying on in the traditional spirit. Those who enter the ranks as acting members through tryouts and those who come in to work on costumes and stage-sets can always look forward confidently to a year of fascinating work-meetings and productions successfully presented.

This year the Players produced a sketch, "Women From Shakespeare" for an assembly program in November, and were proud to again have their annual three-act play subsidized by the Student Co-op., as one of the Guest Artist series.

It is our belief that the student well versed in the fundamentals of dramatic representation and presentation is better able to correlate his abilities with the teaching profession and thus be a better AMERICAN TEACHER.

Who Have Given Their Lives for Their Country

Mansfield with reverent pride pays tribute through the Carontowan to the eight former Mansfield students who so far have given their lives in this war.

These men died for the things that they—as well as those of us who follow them—loved and cherished. They loved their country more than they loved their lives. It is our prayer that the democratic ideals for which they died may stand as living forces throughout the world, tributes to their sacrifice.

These men stand before us as eternal, radiant examples of the price of Our Way of Life, of Justice, and of Freedom.

The American Teacher

THIS IS AMERICA!

And this is an American school teacher.
She is moulding the future of America
In the person of a little schoolchild.
She carries on in a war-torn world
Holding aloft the Lamp of Learning
To light the way to a Lasting Peace.
Her ideals and standards are high
And indoctrination is not in her Code.
For she is an AMERICAN schoolteacher
And

THIS IS AMERICA!
